Nationals Win Both Games of Double Header From Chicago White Sox

Double Barreled Jolt Handed the White Sox

Griffmen Capture Both Games of Twin Sketch, Boehling Blanking the Visitors, 1 to 0, and Gallia Landing on Top, 3 to 1.

Air-tight nitching and the old punch in a pinch won both ends of a double-header from the Chicago White Sox here yesterday; incidentally this two-ply licking tumbled the pallied hose down into third place. The scores were 1 to 0 and 3 to 1.

Joe Boehling and Jim Scott hooked up in the curtain raiser. A single double and Blackburn's error gave Washington the one run it needed in the first inning. Joe Boehling did the rest, allowing but five widely scattered hits. Bert Gallia and Eddie Cicotte were the principals of a red-hot flinging duel in the final game, and Gallia had all the better of it, yielding only four hits, while his veteran rival was bumped hard in spots.

A lucky shift in the second game (it may have been just a "bunch" or Griff's part) helped mightily in putting over the win, for the diminutive Cuban, who replaced Kopp, not only grabbed a couple of hits, but scored as many runs, breezing over both times on George McBride's safe wallops. Kopp was in the first game, but had nothing to do.

Nine hits in eighteen innings just about puts the White Sox back in the old "Hitless Wongers Class." It is also worthy of note that during the eighteen innings of play the Griffmen did not commit a fielding error Eddie Collins and Jaques Fournier, the White Sox heavy hitters, did not fatten their batting averages at the expense of Boehling and Gallia, in fact, it was because the Washington hurlers were able to subdue these gents more than anything else that two victories were chalked up.

Both Scott and Cicotte had their troubles in one inning, when the Griffmen were able to come across with timely hitting. Boehling and Gallin were also in danger on several occasions, but were able to stand the gaff.

WHY DETROIT KEEPS IN PENNANT RACE

Added to the fighting spirit of the Detroit Tigers, there are three good reasons why the Detroit team is near the top of the column plugging away for the dear old pennant. These reasons are "Ty" Cobb, "Bobby" Veach, and "Sam" Crawford, and they are three of the best reasons that a ball team could have.

This great swatting trio is responsible more than anything else for the standing of the Tigers today. Hughis Jennings is lamentably short on good pitchers, but the batting department has kept the team out in the front. As a run-getting organization the Tigers bow to no team in the league. In nearly every game they play they pile up enough runs to win any ordinary game. When the Tigers are beaten it is due to poor pitching alone.

Cobb is having one of the best seasons of his career, and he has been in the hig show for ten years. He is hitting well over 400 and constantly climbing. Veach is hitting around .323, and the ancient and bonorable Crawford is batting around .330.

Samue three course of the dear old pennant. These reasons why the Detroit team is near the sanization. Final arrangements for the inter-city matches on August 15 and 22 were made with Dr. Kaufman. chairman of the green committee, and Donald Bally the professional.
